Mossadeh Surrenders Government To Royalists

Shah Arranges Early Return From Exile

Tehran (AP) — Vanquished Mohammed Mossadeh, ousted from power by a royalist uprising, limped into the central Tehran Officers' Club in pink pajamas yesterday and surrendered dejectedly to his successor, Premier Fazollah Zahedi.

They shook hands and exchanged traditional words of greeting.

A witness who saw the meeting in Zahedi's third floor office said the new Premier leaped from his swivel chair and walked forward with an outstretched hand as Mossadeh entered, thin, pale and apparently on the verge of tears.

"Peace be with you," the new Premier said, speaking first the phrase that Iranians use as a mark of respect.

Mossadeh smiled wanly, bowed stiffly over his cane from the waist and answered in a barely audible tone:

"And with you be peace."

The witness said the nationalist leader seemed barely able to walk in the dramatic sequel to the overthrow of his dictatorially-inclined government Wednesday by troops loyal to the absent Shah, Mohammed Reza Pahlavi.

Mossadeh was visibly depressed. He weakly returned the salutes of Maj. Gen. Zahedi's troops as he limped along the club corridors to meet the man who swept him from power in a 9-hour coup that cost 300 lives.

The ex-Premier, 76, was accompanied by his political adviser, Ali Shayaneg, and two former Cabinet ministers. The latter were Seifollah Moazami, ousted as minister of posts and telegraph, and Gholam Hossein Sadighi, former minister of the interior, a job Zahedi himself once held under Mossadeh.

There was no hint of the whereabouts of Mossadeh's foreign minister, Hossein Fatemi. Wednesday's reports said he had been "torn to pieces."

The Shah, arriving in Rome to start home in a chartered Dutch air liner within a few hours, sent instructions to Zahedi to safeguard Mossadeh's life.

Mossadeh arranged the surrender by telephone. While Zahedi waited for him, the streets surrounding the club were heavily manned by troops.

Adlai Finds Less Danger Of New War

New York (AP) — Adlai Stevenson said yesterday Soviet Russia appears to be in retreat in the cold war and that, for the present, there is less danger of a shooting war.

The defeated Democratic candidate for president returned yesterday after a trip around the world which began March 1 and carried him through more than 30 countries.

He spent his first day at home conferring with Democratic leaders, conducting a large news conference, and attending a luncheon given in his honor by the New York State Democratic Committee.

The major points in his remarks to newsmen were:

His plans for 1956: "I don't know whether I am going to run again in 1956, and if I did I wouldn't tell you."

Soviet policy: "It appears that Russia has changed its tactics and begun a cautious retreat. But there is as yet no certain evidence that the long-term objective of world domination has changed."

Cold and hot war: "We have been winning the cold war, step by step, which is the best tribute to the success of our postwar policies of assistance and resistance . . . in consequence, the danger of world war has diminished at least for the present. But this is no time to lower our guard."

American prestige abroad: "Just now, unhappily, our prestige and moral influence have declined, together with faith in our judgment and our leadership. But don't misunderstand me. In its broad outlines, the image of a magnanimous America still stands out, radiant and clear."

Princess 23 Today

Two Unions End Strike In France

Paris, Friday (AP) — Two big non-Communist unions early today ordered their members to return to work in France's paralyzed postal, telegraph and telephone services.

The unions—Socialist Workers' Force and the Christian (Catholic) Labor Federation—acted shortly after a government official reported that agreement had been reached to bring an end to the 16-day-old walkouts which have crippled France.

The agreement was reached by the two unions working with a delegation from the Popular Republican party which represents the government.

Rothchild Is Accused

Washington, (AP) — A woman's story of secret documents being pocketed by her boss and "very intimate friend," Edward Rothchild, at the Government Printing Office was made public yesterday by the Senate's permanent investigations subcommittee.

Along with it came a declaration by Sen. Potter (R-Mich) that spying on a scale that "would make the Alger Hiss case look like petty larceny" may have been going on to hasten Russia's development of the hydrogen bomb.

The testimony against Rothchild, suspended last Tuesday from his GPO bookbinding job, came from Miss Clea Guess, a New Orleans shopkeeper who used to work at the government printing plant.

She didn't appear at yesterday's hearing because, Chairman McCarthy (R-Wis) said, she has a bad heart and her doctor told her to avoid excitement.

She previously testified:

One: She saw Rothchild "on a few occasions" put pamphlets in his trouser pocket pamphlets "pertaining to military stuff . . . like airplanes and different things pertaining to war."

Two: She saw him reading "a secret code for the U. S. merchant marine" which he "picked up" from another workman's machine.

Rothchild, 42, was cut off the GPO payroll after he refused to tell the subcommittee whether he is a Communist, whether he stole any documents or whether he was engaged in espionage as recently as a week ago last Sunday.

Ford Experiments On Gas Turbines

Detroit, (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. is going into research on gas turbine engines for possible use in automobiles. The work will be carried on in the company's 80 million dollar Dearborn research center now being built as a memorial to Henry and Edsel Ford.

Cancels Order

Washington (AP) — The Postoffice Department yesterday canceled its order denying use of the mails to promotional material on AD-X2, a controversial powder designed to lengthen the life of storage batteries.

84 Pints Of Blood Collected Here--66 Short Of Quota Set

Blood donations were 66 pints short of the 150-pint quota yesterday at the VFW in Stroudsburg.

Of the 84 pints collected, 55 were given by "walk-ins."

The remaining 29 pints were from donors signed up by VFW workers.

The total number of volunteers reached 93, but nine were rejected. The VFW proposed to collect at least 300 pints in two visits of the bloodmobile—of which yesterday was the first.

To meet the quota, 216 pints would have to be collected during next month's visit.

One of the donors yesterday had a proud record. She is Miss Margaret Pierce, Stroudsburg, whose contribution yesterday brought her total to two gallons.

Three of the 16 pints she contributed were donated in Philadelphia, the rest locally.

Processing was handled by 43 volunteers who spent a total of 198 hours on the job.

To a question from newsmen as to whether he would celebrate with a "spurge," the father of four and grandfather of six replied:

"That would not be intelligent. I showed a certain amount of common sense in this contest and that would be out of character."

Second prize of $75,000 went to Mrs. Jack Stanley Rallsback, 36, of Modesto, Calif., a cannery worker and wife of a disabled war veteran. Third prize of $30,000 went to Norman Barcus, 47, of Detroit, a state employee.

Estimates varied on how much the winners would have to pay in income taxes. For Rallsback, it was estimated he would pay anywhere from $175,000 to $258,601.

The testimony against Rothchild, suspended last Tuesday from his GPO bookbinding job, came from Miss Clea Guess, a New Orleans shopkeeper who used to work at the government printing plant.

She didn't appear at yesterday's hearing because, Chairman McCarthy (R-Wis) said, she has a bad heart and her doctor told her to avoid excitement.

She previously testified:

French Oust Sultan; Holy War Feared

Rabat, French Morocco (AP) — France de-throned the Sultan of Morocco yesterday and exiled him with his family to Corsica, while ominous threats of a "jihad"—Moslem holy war—gathered over this North African protectorate.

Fierce tribesmen from the south, the hard-riding Berbers of legendary fighting fame, were on the move toward Rabat, the capital. Some already reached the outskirts of the city, a French official spokesman said, and scattered fighting was reported in the turbulent native quarter.

Gen. Augustin Guillaume, the French resident general, conveyed the news to the Sultan while French tanks, armored cars and troops surrounded the high walls of the ruler's palace. Emerging from the palace, Guillaume confirmed that the Sultan, whose nationalist ambitions long annoyed the French, had been thrown out.

A government spokesman said the deposed Sultan's uncle, Moulay Mohammed Ben Arafa, will succeed to the throne. Arafa, 64, was a bitter enemy of his nephew. He was named by a group of pashas last week to be religious leader of Moroccan Moslems.

The French clamped censorship regulations and dusk-to-dawn curfew on the protectorate after throwing out their backing behind the Sultan's uncle, Moulay Mohammed Ben Arafa, leader of four million Berber tribesmen and a bitter enemy of the Sultan.

The lean, hawk-nosed and wealthy pasha last week engineered a coup by which a rival was set against Sultan Sidi Mohammed VI, Yusuf as religious leader, or Imam, of French Morocco's seven million Moslems.

With the mounting tension, rioting was expected momentarily in Rabat between followers of the pasha and the Sultan. The Berbers were reported descending on the city on horseback, in trucks and on foot, carrying their rifles with them.

The developments were bound to have severe repercussions throughout the Moslem world.

There was much American concern, too. The United States has five big airbases in Morocco, key links in a defense chain into which 200 million dollars already have been poured, with 400 million more to be spent.

Frenzy Report's Survey Of Behavior Of Women Discloses Most Of Them Act Like Human Beings

By Leonard Randolph

A new era of Kinsey frenzy dawns today.

With pre-publication release of newspaper and magazine articles based on Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey's book "Sexual Behavior in the Human Female" set for this date, a new storm of controversy settles upon the land.

Present indications point to the fact that the hubbub will equal, or surpass, that which greeted the same scientist's survey of similar behavior in the human male some years ago.

In an effort to dispel a bit of the darkness and confusion which may result from publication of Dr. Kinsey's new book this newspaper has endeavored to prepare a thoroughgoing, unbiased, objective review of various other aspects of behavior in the human female excluding, of course, sex, a commodity upon which Dr. Kinsey now may well have a patent.

To prepare this report an exhaustive series of interviews was taken with a large number of human females. Most information came from talks with men, women talking about other women and idle gossip, however.

Numbered among this group were women, young married women, elderly matrons, elderly ladies and ladies who preferred not to mention their ages. Our report is to be called the "Frenzy Report."

One of the first conclusions reached in this survey is that women do not grow old the same as men. Most men at the age of 40 admit to being 40.

Nearly 90 percent of those 40-

U.S. Delegation To U.N. To Vote Against Seating India At Peace Conference

United Nations, N. Y., (AP) — The United States announced publicly last night it will vote against India's participation in the Korean peace conference. The American delegation at the same time stepped up its campaign to keep the Indians on the sidelines.

Faced by the strong possibility that India would get a seat unless he came out flatly and definitely with Washington's decision, U. S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. issued the following statement:

"The United States will vote no on the resolution recommending India's participation in the Korean political conference.

"We are not against India as such. On the contrary, we admire her and regard her as a leading democratic nation. But we feel that it is not right to put any non-belligerent nation on a higher footing than many others. We think that the Soviet Union should be present but on the Communist side because she actively aided aggression and should be held responsible and accountable for peace."

Other delegates have said Lodge would vote against India, but this was the first time the U. S. delegate made a definite statement on the matter.

The timing impressed diplomats as it had begun to appear India might have a chance, especially if the United States merely abstained on the crucial vote. Informed sources said that Lodge now was throwing into high gear the U. S. efforts to keep India from the conference and hoped to succeed in his efforts.

150 Americans, Considered By Reds As 'Incorrigibles,' Freed In Exchange Speedup

Panmunjom, Friday, (AP) — With shouts of "Whoopie" and dances of joy the largest group of American war prisoners yet released came back from Red captivity yesterday on the 17th day of Operation Big Switch.

One soldier called out that all the 150 Americans being repatriated today were from Camp 1 for "incorrigibles" at Chongsong, near the Yalu River boundary of Manchuria.

The exchange began at 8:50 a. m. (7:50 p. m. Thursday, EDT). The day was hot and sultry despite an overcast.

Besides the Americans the Reds also released 200 South Koreans including one full colonel, Lin Ik Soon. He was the highest ranking officer yet repatriated by the Reds.

The returning Americans were in high spirits.

One soldier danced a jig all the way from the Red truck which delivered him to the Allied reception center.

The Communists set a new record for delivering prisoners today. They had all the 150 Americans at the reception center within 50 minutes—an hour and 10 minutes ahead of schedule. It was the second straight day the Reds had asked for permission to speed up the delivery.

The American repatriates from Camp 1 were considered the "incorrigibles" by the Communists because they had resisted all attempts to communize them.

Others of this group in the 60 Americans released Thursday told of a U. S. flier tortured to death in resisting efforts to make him "confess" he waged germ warfare.

They said the flier was chained unaided in the blazing sun until he died of exhaustion.

year-old women interviewed by Frenzy researchers said they were "over 20." Another six percent declined to say. Four percent said they did not understand the question.

Some 83.4 percent of all women object violently when told they are getting grey hairs on their scalps. Only 12 percent object when told they have dandruff, however.

Nearly 92 percent of all women buy shoes a size too small. The remaining 8 percent buy shoes two sizes too small.

Less than 20 percent of all women buy clothes to suit their husbands. Less than one percent take their husbands with them when buying new clothes.

Also, 50 percent of American women have been kissed prior to their 16th birthdays, thereby doing away with the foolish notion that girls who are "sweet sixteen" have never been kissed. 13 percent expressed doubt that they were "sweet" when they were sixteen.

More than 72 percent of wives complain that their husbands have cold feet. An estimated 12 percent said their husbands pulled all the covers off of their side of a double bed.

And 99.4 percent of all women snore while sleeping. Less than two percent owned up to the fact. The remainder said they didn't know about their own snoring but they did know that their husband snored.

Over 65 percent married before they were 21. Of these only 9 percent expressed a feeling that their husbands were idiots; 43 percent found their husbands slightly stupid; Six percent said they had been very happy and would do the whole thing over again, given the chance.

Of the 81 percent of American wives who play bridge with their husbands, less than three percent said they enjoyed it, and 46 percent thought their mates were "hand-holders." The remaining 51 percent said their partners were non-cooperative and boorish while playing.

More than 85 percent of all women belonged to one or more clubs or other organizations during the first 10 years of marriage. Less than two percent of these said they thought the clubs took up too much of their time; another 40 percent said they noticed the strain; 12 percent said their club work helped fill dull spaces in their days; the remaining 46 percent said the only reason they belonged to clubs was because everyone else did.

(Husbands were asked whether their wives belonged to too many clubs. Only one percent answered with a flat yes; 43 percent said they'd have to ask their wives; 26 percent said it didn't really matter what they thought and 30 percent refused to answer on grounds that to do so might incriminate them.)

Some 63 percent of all brides know how to bake biscuits. This was a major upset in the Frenzy report compilation. Less than four percent bother to bake them, however.

Less than two percent of all husbands thought their wives were better cooks than their mothers.

Strengthening Of Defenses Held Urgent

Washington (AP) — Moscow's announcement that Russia has exploded a hydrogen bomb sparked urgent demands from Congress members yesterday for both stronger defenses and renewed efforts at stripping such devastating weapons from arsenals of the world.

Official U. S. confirmation that the Soviets have set off a hydrogen explosion dispelled some of the skepticism that built up over a Russian statement 12 days ago that the United States no longer has a monopoly on H-bomb production.

But it still was uncertain whether Russia or for that matter the United States has turned out a practical weapon that can be loaded on a plane and dropped on a target.

Rep. Hineshaw (R-Calif.), a member of the Senate House Atomic Energy Committee, said he doesn't believe Russia has such a bomb yet. He wouldn't even speculate whether this country has reached the practical stage, although he said as late as Aug. 9 that "we mastered production of the hydrogen bomb and all other aspects of it a year ago."

In any event, the Soviet statement that a type of hydrogen bomb of "great strength" has been exploded on a test basis brought the weight of vast problems crashing down on Washington.

Some authorities thought it might spur civil defense, the recruiting of volunteer plane spotters and the completion of a radar screen across the northern air approaches to the United States. Some thought it might be necessary for the Pentagon to take another look at its plans to limit war production facilities—plants which Gen. Omar N. Bradley has said may save money but will make war industries more vulnerable.

In spite of Moscow's assurance that there is no "foundation for alarm" among other nations, several members of Congress said the United States must look to the strength of its air power and strategic bombers that can rain retaliatory destruction on Russia.

Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) and Rep. O'Hara (D-Ill.) urged new attempts at an international understanding to forego use of such awesome devices as the atom and hydrogen bombs.

While calling for a complete re-examination of the disarmament problem, Wiley said "we must continue to build up the joint defense of the free world so that we can meet any eventuality," until an effective system of inspection and control can be established.

Both Russia and the United States have urged disarmament over and over again but have split over the key issue of control and inspection. Now, Wiley said, they should try again for a basis for agreement.

Rep. Latham (D-Ga.) contended the Soviet H-bomb announcement "certainly makes foolish the cuts in Air Force and civil defense appropriations which we recently made." Rep. Wickersham (D-Okl.) declared: "This makes it imperative that the Defense Department act promptly to make sure that our strategic air command become as strong as possible."

Howard B. Lininger To Expand Macadam Surfacing Service

By James B. Gaffney

A new enterprise for Monroe County and environs was disclosed this week with Howard B. Lininger's announcement he is ready to extend his "Black Top Roads" service on a full-scale basis.

From his Stroudsburg RD 2 office, a half-mile west of Stroudsburg borough limits, Lininger is prepared to build roads, streets, driveways, parking lots, swimming pools, ice skating rinks, cattle exercise yards, tennis and badminton courts, or any type surface requiring macadam.

Only recently Lininger finished an Eighth St project in Stroudsburg, opening a new building site development. All types of macadam work are his specialties.

He also operates the shale pit, stone crusher and top soil business which he has maintained for two years and will now be in this phase with his "Black Top Roads" business.

Lininger has been active in the road construction business his entire life. For the past 19 years he covered this section as a construction equipment salesman and recently was sales manager for a firm.

The contractor gets his materials locally and at present employs a tow-truck, a three and a half yard body truck, a grader, a one-ton pickup truck, a 2-5 ton roller, half-yard shovel, crusher and tractor in his business.

Hot mix, big—down meeting state specifications—product he's promoting from his 120-acre property which he expects to develop soon at Stroudsburg RD 2. All operations stem from there.

Lininger served five and a half

Tossed Beer Bottle Crashes Into Windshield Of Passing Automobile, Injures Young Woman

A 22-year-old girl who was cut by flying glass after a beer bottle thrown from a passing car hit the windshield of the auto in which she was riding, was among 15 persons treated for injuries in the General Hospital dispensary, East Stroudsburg, in the past two days.

The girl, Mary Lou Enders, of Haverford, Pa., who had been vacationing at a Glenwood Hotel, was treated for cuts of the face and neck.

Miss Enders was riding in a car driven by Adin Walsh, 30, of Dunmore, traveling toward Stroudsburg on Route 611. Walsh later told police someone riding in a black car traveling in the opposite direction hurled the quart beer bottle. It crashed through the right section of the Walsh car windshield. The accident happened about 8 p. m. Wednesday.

Others treated were:

Michael Pilla, Philadelphia, a guest at Camp Tamiment, who sprained his left ankle when he fell playing handball.

Suzanne Heron, 3, of Stroudsburg, who cut her forehead while playing on a swing.

Lynn Wildrick, Portland, was treated for scalp cut.

John Albert, 5, of 123 Pearl St., East Stroudsburg, fell against a radiator, cutting his scalp.

Eileen Thomas, Philadelphia, guest at Oak Grove House, suffered a sprain fracture of the left ankle while descending a flight of stairs.

Charles R. Crouse, Williamsport, was involved in an auto accident, cutting his chin.

Thomas Burke, Tobyhanna, dropped a piece of metal on his small finger of the right hand suffering laceration and fracture.

Mike Lawler, Knoxville, Md., caught his right hand in the wringer of a washing machine. He suffered bruises of the right forearm and cut right thumb.

Ann Brennan, Shenandoah, a guest at Unity House, was involved in an auto accident and suffered a cut lip.

David J. Donovan, New York City, guest at Willow Dell, fractured his right index finger playing baseball.

Mary Hilar, Mahanoy City, guest at Unity House and Sylvan Shook, Stroudsburg RD 1, both were auto accident victims. The former received a cut lip while playing on a swing.

Good Hunting Ahead

The early-morning crispness of the air is a harbinger of Fall, and if Fall comes, hunting season can not be far away. Notes from the Pennsylvania Game Commission on reports from protectors afield are quoted, without further comment:

Wildlife on Rampage in Monroe County: "Damage complaints in June reached an all time high in my district. Not only are there more deer damage complaints but pheasants, rabbits and woodchuck damage is way up over other years. One farmer had 40 two-pound chickens killed by a raccoon; another had 13 chickens killed by a litter of gray foxes. Bear damage is up. I helped investigate a claim in which a bear killed 8 sheep."

Bears Showing Up in North Central Counties: "Numerous bears have been seen in this area lately. (Potter County.)"

'Bear hunting should be at its best this Fall. There was one bear killed on the highway in Elk County a while back. Reports received of at least three more that were hit by vehicles but not killed. In one case a truck struck a bear, catching it on the front bumper and carrying it about 50 feet. The grille of the truck was smashed but the bear did not appear to have been hurt seriously."

This Is Security?

Sometimes our efforts at national security are astoundingly transparent. As a recent instance we cite the Tampa, Fla., launching by the Navy of an object they referred to as "a $500,000 something" supposed to be top secret. It was therefore somewhat astonishing to learn that it was launched in full view of reporters and photographers and assorted and sundry onlookers.

The reporters were permitted to describe the "thing" as huge and cigar-shaped. Cameras snapped for posterity part of the object while it was aloft. To add to the festive occasion a young lady popped a bottle of champagne over the "things" snout.

The story made us curious. It must also have made anyone engaged in the spying business curious, too. The hullabaloo was certain to attract someone touring the country looking for secrets to sell.

If the "thing" is so top secret, how come the party? Who was responsible for adding the festive touch that was bound to attract curiosity seekers? Or seekers of secrets?

Either the "thing" isn't much of an important secret, or someone lost their manual on the fine points of internal security.

Disease-carrying rats have killed more people than all the wars in history.

In Buenos Aires and other Argentine cities, the walls of many residents are covered with multi-colored tiles.

The Once Over

IDEA FOR SPEED PEACE

We once wrote a book, "Private Burke's Private Peace," a high note of which was a famed crashing of a peace session by exasperated servicemen who told off the diplomats and supplied a G. I. Blueprint for Peace. With the U. N. convening again on the all-important peace problem we again like to picture a group of G. I.'s crashing the gate, seizing the rostrum and giving the delegates their reactions to all the argument and snafu. Their views so expressed would make a story that would sweep the world and one unparalleled in its appeal to all peoples. We get a kick out of fancying a wounded veteran addressing the General Assembly.

"Okay, so I'm out of order! I'm busting the procedural rules wide open. I'm elbowing the parliamentary routines. Nevertheless a combat guy has a right to be heard here if anybody has. This is a meeting to end war and bring peace, ain't it? Who knows more about war? Who is leveling more about war? Gentlemen, I'm no Daniel Webster but I can get closer to the point in a half hour than any of you have got in the last five years!"

"If you boys had to do one night's patrol duty in Korea, retake a hill or hold a town overnight you could get the picture straighter, talk plainer and act faster. I bring you a helpful blueprint:

1. Shorter speeches and no distractions.

2. Less patience when the Russians start distorting the picture, muddying up the waters and vilifying everybody else in the house.

3. A walkout on the Commies whenever they get abusive and go for the gutter tactics.

4. Longer hours. Nobody is really trying for peace who shows up for work at 10:30, takes two hours for lunch, gets back at 3 p. m. and adjourns at 5 o'clock on account of the hour is getting late and there's a dinner party at the Waldorf.

5. A permanent presiding officer who has had at least two years experience as a baseball umpire and three years as a fight referee.

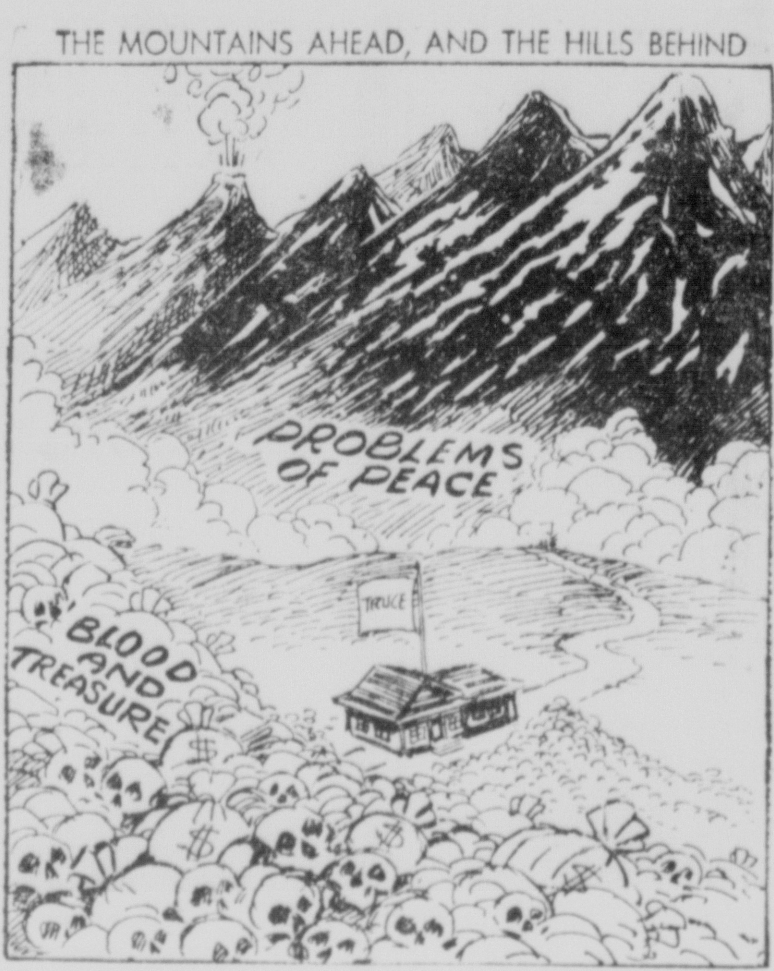

"Listen, gentlemen. The fate of the world is in the balance and you are fiddling while the listen-audience burns. This is no debating society. You birds are supposed to talk turkey, face facts, get results and rescue the world. There's slaughter going on. Hate is being spread. All the decent concepts are being clobbered. During every speech you make here some kid is dying somewhere! In every recess you take for lunch another bunch of amputees are leaving some hospital somewhere! During every postponed vote some fighting man gets the word he will never use his eyes again! How can you guys quibble over an agenda and not get a vision of blackened cities and long lines of maimed and hungry war orphans? How can you go to all those cocktail parties without wearing false whiskers when you know the shape the world is in? Gentlemen, when do you get fed up with the run-around, the double-talk, the peace despolers, the lies, the hate campaigns, the crucifiers and the men who lack simple honesty and a fundamental respect for the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth? I close with this question: Is this a waltz, a rumba, an eratic rodeo or an all-out, on-the-level crusade for world peace? Okay, throw me out! I represent ONLY THE MEN WHO DO THE DYING."

A new play called "The Solid Gold Cadillac" is coming to New York. . . . Not sponsored, obviously, by the Ford Foundation. . . . Franz Von Papen is out with his life story which is not, for some strange reason, entitled, "Butterflying Me Up." . . . We are having our copy sandblasted to minimize the slippery quality of the tome. . . . The nickel phone booth has now been outlawed in Connecticut, too, and in the land of thrift and steady habits many a Wooden Nutzegger is talking less than never and threatening to go back to the postcard even for a "Yes" or "No." . . . Saving up for a rainy day has been ridiculed at Washington for twenty years, but President Eisenhower has succeeded in at least reviving public interest in possible rain. . . . We know a parent in the typical TV home who boasts that the baby has learned to read the beer commercials. . . . Ivestia attacks the Russian circus and demands better clown acts, charging that they are no longer amusing. . . . A clown is getting it plenty tough when a Russian audience takes its seat and says, "Okay, go ahead and make me laugh." . . . Experiments with rubber streets are reported successful, but the paramount need is for a rubber bridge abutment, a rubber telegraph pole and plenty of rubber fanees. . . . Nobody who uses a parking lot these days can say that the days of banditry in America are dead. . . . Fred Allen is back on TV and, even when suffering intensely from the act, is more amusing than a lot of TV stars when having the time of their lives.

Robert S. Allen Reports

Scandal Scarred Revenue Department Men Are Out

Washington — There has been another big explosion in the scandal-scarred Internal Revenue Bureau.

One top official has been ousted and another has quit, as follows:

Assistant Commissioner Edgar E. Hoppe, who as chief of the Inspection Service was third in rank in the IRE.

James Warner, assistant director of Inspection, who resigned when Hoppe was axed.

Hoppe is resisting his unannounced dismissal. He has demanded a hearing by the Civil Service Commission, which is considering the matter.

Both men are career employees of more than 15 years' service. They were named to their influential positions last fall by former Commissioner John Dunlap, as part of an extensive reorganization of the tax-collecting agency that climaxed several years of sensational disclosures by a House investigating committee.

This probe resulted in the firing of numerous Revenue officials throughout the country, and the conviction of some of them. The prosecution of others is still pending.

Dunlap's reshuffling of the Bureau has been repeatedly assailed. A career man himself, he stepped out as Commissioner to take a high regional office in Texas before President Eisenhower was inaugurated. But later, Dunlap resigned following the appointment of Commissioner T. Coleman Andrews.

More juggling. At the Revenue Bureau, a tight news blackout has been imposed on Hoppe's ouster. A press inquiry produced only a terse "No comment."

From other sources, however, the following was learned: Hoppe's removal is part of another far-reaching reorganization that Commissioner Andrews has in the works. The job is being directed by Deputy Commissioner Gordon Delk and his assistant, Harry Vance, who were brought into the Bureau by Andrews. It was on their recommendation that Hoppe was removed.

Andrews' letter gave Hoppe no explanation for his replacement. The latter immediately sought a conference with Andrews, but couldn't get to him. Warner, bearing in he was headed for the same fate, thereupon resigned.

This and other personnel matters are being looked into by the Joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation headed by Representative Daniel Reed (R., N.Y.). The Committee has received a number of complaints regarding Bureau affairs.

One alleges that Delk made a speech to Bureau employees in which he threatened to fire anyone giving information to either members of Congress or newsmen.

The Committee has also been told that Commissioner Andrews is having patronage difficulties with top Republican leaders, including National Chairman Leonard Hall and Elbert Parr Tuttle, general counsel of the Treasury Department.

Andrews is reported to have rejected several recommendations by Hall and Tuttle for general counsel of the Revenue Bureau, which has been vacant since June when Charles Davis resigned to go into private law practice.

Note: In St. Louis, crusading Federal Judge Moore has convened a new grand jury to make a sweeping investigation of the "reorganized Bureau of Internal Revenue in the State of Missouri." Last year, Judge Moore was responsible for exposing scandals in that office. In a 40-page charge to the new grand jury, he declared caustically, "I think you will find that most of the officials who were responsible for hindering, delaying and obstructing the investigation of Internal Revenue matters in this district in the past were, almost without exception, rewarded with promotion."

What they wrought. The final score is in on the recent session of Congress, and following is what the official record shows:

Total amount of money voted by the legislators for all purposes — $4,539,342,491. That stupendous total is $14,508,622,125 less than the original amounts proposed.

The Senate was in session 125 days for a total of 763 hours and 35 minutes, and the House, 117 days for a total of 566 hours and 47 minutes.

During those periods, the Senate's proceedings required 6,751 pages in the Congressional Record, while those of the House needed only 4,669 pages; a combined total of 11,420 pages. In addition, both chambers consumed 5,228 pages in the Appendix for "extensions of remarks" and innumerable other insertions.

In the course of the seven months session, the Senate passed 848 bills and the House 1,018. But of this large number, actually only 182 of the Senate's measures became law, and only 318 of those which originated in the House. The large number remaining were either killed or are still pending.

During the session, there were 81 record votes in the Senate and 79 in the House.

Also, the Senate received 23,542 appointments from President Eisenhower, the great majority of them officer promotions in the military services. Of 101 Postmaster appointments, the Senate confirmed 75 and left the others for future consideration.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

State Dept's Intellectual Incapacity To Stand Up To British Skuttles Lodge

The Korean War was fought to establish a principle, namely, that military aggression is not tolerable in the affairs of nations. The North Koreans regarded their combat as civil war and not as aggression; it is for this reason that they have taken the position that the United States invaded Korea. That view could have been acceptable up to November 1950 when Communist China intervened as an aggressor. That eliminated any possibility of regarding the conflict as a civil war.

The Communist Chinese aggression was war. They used the device which the Russians had employed in the Spanish Civil War, namely, that their huge armies, well-organized, admirably provisioned, were volunteers. Yet, the fact is that the North Koreans had been defeated by General MacArthur before the Chinese Communists came in. That defeat had been so complete that MacArthur expected the war to be over soon.

Today, the Chinese Communists are in possession of North Korea and nothing in the truce agreement requires them to leave that country. For this reason, it is possible to say that the United States lost the war, since aggression, instead of being punished, is rewarded. In fact, the British and Canadians, accepting the Chinese Communists as victors, propose that they be given a seat in the United Nations. What greater reward could come to them for aggression?

However, Soviet Russia demands a seat at the Political Conference as one of the United Nations members. While this was fought by Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., as historically incorrect, as immoral, since it rewards aggression, as damaging to the prestige of the United Nations, the British and Canadians have favored the Russian cause on the grounds that if Russia sat on the other side of the table, namely, among the Chinese and Korean Communists, it would be an admission that the Russians were belligerents. Well, what are they?

Lodge's arguments were sound and correct. That they have not prevailed is due to the intellectual incapacity of the State Department to stand up to the British when they are wrong. If a war of aggression can result in the aggressors being rewarded, and if members of the United Nations can support a war against the United Nations, then it is clear beyond doubt that the United Nations must go the way of the League of Nations after the Japanese invaded Manchuria in 1931 and the Italians invaded Ethiopia in 1935.

After aggression was permitted to stand unpunished, the League ceased to have meaning and World War II became inevitable. The appeasement of Communist China and Soviet Russia by Great Britain is designed not only to increase trade for the Commonwealth countries, but also to keep India within the Commonwealth. Yet, any student of Asiatic problems must recognize that India is in peril of a Communist revolution which will occur after the Chinese Communists have taken Indo-China and Thailand. The peril to world peace is still in Asia. The current British policies do not limit this peril; in fact, the strengthening of the position of Communist China must ultimately weaken the position of Great Britain in Asia.

There is one factor in this situation which needs mention because the British believe it to be true, namely, that at some time the Chinese Communists and Soviet Russia will split. They apparently believe that such a split will save the world.

You're Telling Me

—by William Ritt

Budget Director Dodge is cracking down on bureaucrats using government autos for private riding. The Republicans won in a walk last November, so why change methods?

It seems a lot of chauffeurs are being used in Washington. The GOP promised plenty if they got in the driver's seat, now some won't even take the wheel.

Regulations provide that government cars may not be used for transportation to and from the office. That means the gray train does not provide door-to-door delivery.

Besides, parking space is at a premium in Washington. With traffic from two parties, there's a lot of fender rubbing.

Dodge also is cracking down on plans for new government cars. Just because the old administration was traded in is no reason for trading in its transportation, too.

The people voted for a change, all right, but just in the cast of characters, not the scenery.

Mr. Dodge himself drives a Chrysler. If there is a Mr. Chrysler there, the decent thing for him to do is drive a Dodge.

Looking At Life —by Erich Brandeis

Far be it from me to suggest to President Eisenhower how to run the country.

In the first place, he knows much more about it than I do; and in the second place, he probably already has some 100 million people who can do tell him everything he needs to know.

But when he called 28 civilian leaders to the White House the other day and asked them to arrange a highway safety conference with 2,000 or 3,000 delegates from all over the country, I may be permitted to contribute my two-cents-worth to the pressing question of SAFETY.

The President told his guests that our highway fatality rate exceeded that of the Korean war by three or four times, and that 17,000 lives a year could easily be saved if people would only drive more carefully.

He said that a truce had been declared in Korea, and called for a truce on traffic deaths.

That is a very commendable sentiment and a very noble purpose. But I predict that it will fail.

No conference on earth can change human nature.

Traffic deaths are not only the result of careless drivers. They are the result of human nature.

As soon as the truce in Korea was declared, the soldiers had to lay down their arms and keep a safe distance from each other, just in case human nature might assert itself and the fighting might start all over again.

I have said time and again that if you give a fool a powerful weapon, he will eventually use it.

Give a child a book of matches with which to play and there will be a fire. Give a man a gun and one of these days he'll shoot it off, just to see how it works. Give a boy from 16 to 60 a 100 or 200 horsepower car and he'll see how fast it will go and eventually blow himself and all those near him to smithereens.

How often have you seen some crazy kid whizz by you in his souped-up hot-rod at 90 miles an hour, and a half mile later you saw that very car parked in his father's drive-way? He wasn't in any hurry to get anywhere. He just wanted to SHOW OFF.

The only way to avoid all these traffic deaths is to make highway killing equivalent to manslaughter. Some deaths are, of course, unavoidable. But most of them are not. The man who kills his fellow man with his automobile is just as guilty as he who kills him with a gun.

The penalty for killing by car should be so severe that the would-be killer would be scared stiff to take the chance.

But even with much stricter penalties for traffic violations, those 17,000 lives a year will never be spared unless laws are passed making the manufacture of these outrageously fast and powerful automobiles a crime.

Just a few days ago I saw a German sports car at a gas station. A boy of about 20, working at the station, was washing it. With dreamy eyes he said to me, "This baby will make 111 miles an hour. Yesterday I drove it. I made 100 miles coming around a corner. Imagine!"

I looked inside the juggernaut. On the dashboard was a little sign "RELAX." I could picture anyone relaxing at 111 miles an hour.

The best way to keep a kid from setting your home on fire is not to give him any matches.

Try and Stop Me

New Movie Techniques are keeping Hollywood 3-demoralized. One saloon keeper renamed his place the "GINORAMA." A kid brought his school report card home and confided to his mother, "I hope Pa doesn't have a pair of those red - and - green glasses. I've got a 3-D record this month!" A neighbor of Bob Haynes boasts he has 3-D sound. He lives in Apartment 2-A and hears a newly-wed pair battling in 3-D. Even Lassie, famous canine star, may be groomed for a tree-D picture.

New York Confidential

—by Lee Mortimer

New York—Things one New Yorker thinks about:

Because there are more sharpshooters per sq. ft. here than anywhere, I wondered how long it would be before someone found a way to beat the new 15-cent fare subway tokens that are in use here. Not long. An enterprising soul discovered that children's "play money" sold in the dime store was virtually the same size as the token and away they went. The honanza lasted for a weekend, before the subway people rather frantically fixed up the turnstile slots so they'd repel the play money. I report all this faithfully just in case any of you are thinking of coming to town to outsmart the natives. We'll send you back to Goose Creek with your hair singed.

I always knew that Ralph Kiner, the Chicago home-run hitter, had a flaw in his make-up somewhere, but I always thought it was just an inability to hit the outside curve. Now I know better. The Assn. of American Playing Card Manufacturers tells me Kiner's favorite card game is contract bridge. The defense rots. The association also reports that ball players play more gin rummy than anything else. And that the Brooklyn Dodgers indulge in such games as besoca, prisical, piteh and crazy eights. I don't know what any of those are, but they sound like games the Dodgers would play. And that's the reason they won't win the National League pennant.

Everybody and his brother seems involved in the coming race for New York's mayoralty, and things have grown kind of silly. A note of sanity has been injected, however, Bernard Macfadden, the carrot-and-dumbbells man has thrown his hat into the ring as the nominee of the "Honesty Party." Still walking briskly, swimming and parachute-leaping at the age of 85, Mr. Macfadden complains the city has "been managed up to the present by a lot of old, or young, fogies." That's good sharpshooting. We've had many fogies as mayor here.

One of the hot cafe acts here lately has been that of Brooklyn-born Frances Faye, once known as the Queen of Za-Bu-zaz. Wish I Could Shimmy Like My Sister Kate" intended in the beginning, like so many show people, to be a schoolteacher. Remember the gorgeous and ill-starred Thelma Todd, the blonde foil of the Marx brothers? A schoolteacher once upon a time. I believe Sam Levenson the TV comic, also once taught school. There's undoubtedly an affinity there somewhere, and I'll think about it for a while.

The bright word from Garland, Tex., these days is that Harry Roinick, who designs Harry Truman's hats and also made up the late Fiorello LaGuardia's black sombreros, says men's chapeaux soon will come in sky blue, red and pale yellow colors with plumes, feathers and artificial fruit, yet, Mr. Roinick, also a native of Brooklyn, has a fascinating sideline. He supplies Warner Brothers' movie actors with their hats—including those lovely worn and defeated old fedoras used by pseudo-reporters and detectives. He employs a man whose job it is solely to kick and batter new hats until they look "lived in." I am checking a rumor that this man actually is Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, who virtually never has been seen in a new hat.

And speaking of Alfred Gwynne, the Plaza hotel here has just put together a luxurious modern apartment—its first completely modern suite—and called it the Vanderbilt Suite in memory of the young horseman's father, who on October 1, 1907, was the first guest to register at the hotel. The furniture was designed by Paul McCobb, who does all those things with iron and glass that seem to be in every furniture store you walk into.

Down in East 32nd Street is a company called Theaters, Inc., which dreykams men's ties. Stuart Bart, an advertising man who operates it, uses a clipping service to get everything printed national by about neckties. So this past week his batch of clippings included stories about (1) a man killing himself by hanging with a necktie, (2) nicting in public being prohibited in a southern town and (3) the good old "necktie-party" days in the old west, as related by a 99-year-old onetime prospector. Mr. Bart read them all, grinned and stuck them into the back of his scrapbook.

Some Mexican birds nest in trees whose trunks are surrounded by wasps' nests as a protection from monkeys, raccoons and possums.

The pawnshop was as familiar in China two or three thousand years ago as it is in the west today.

New York state has been the home of more United States vice presidents than any other.

The Mexican constitution forbids any church to own real estate.

The state of Missouri was named after the Missouri Indians.

Penn Staters To Nominate, Elect Officers

Organization of a district Penn State Alumni Club will take place at the Penn Stroud Hotel tonight at 8.

Nomination and election of officers will climax the meeting. Another highlight will be the showing of college films by Rip Engle, head football coach at Penn State, and Sever Toretti, an assistant coach.

Indications last night pointed to a large turnout of alumni, present students and those who will enter the college for the first time this fall. Husbands and wives of the graduates also are invited to attend.

A group of alumni will entertain Engle and Toretti at luncheon today noon, after which the coaches will tour the Shawnee Inn and Country Club golf course as the guests of Fred Waring, a trustee at Penn State.

Among those who will greet Engle and Toretti upon their arrival here shortly before noon are Dr. Evan C. Reese, district alumni representative, M. R. Keifer, J. L. Cohen, Jesse Flory and Clifford L. Cramer.

Several hundred Penn State alumni reside in Monroe, Pike and Carbon Counties, according to Dr. Reese.

Racing Horse Belies Name

Chivalrous Leaps Fence, Dives Into Car Occupied By Women

Being run down is one thing, but when it's by a former race horse, that's a different color. Mrs. Forrest Graves, 1004 Main St., Stroudsburg will assure anybody.

Chivalrous, a five-year-old gelding, interrupted a casual drive Mrs. Graves was taking recently with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ellis Hunt of Norfolk, Mass.

Mrs. Graves, a house guest of her brother and sister-in-law for a month, was driving Mrs. Hunt to a hunting lodge owned by the Hunts near Norfolk.

Chivalrous, who apparently had an indifferent career as a race horse, had been purchased by the Edward O. Smiths as a riding horse. It had apparently tossed a rider and had been loose an hour when Mrs. Graves halted her car for a stop sign, then started out.

The horse leaped a fence at the Smith estate and plucked head-long against the side of the car.

Certain New Car Charges Not Taxable

Sales Impost Doesn't Apply To Services

Harrisburg (AP) — Automobile dealers were advised yesterday not to collect the 1 per cent sales tax on waxing, window glazing and undercoating charges usually included in the sale price of a new automobile.

The Pennsylvania Automotive Association told its membership, however, the tax will apply to new car prices that include federal taxes, freight, delivery and handling, preparation and advertising charges.

The state Sales Tax Bureau explained that waxing and undercoating are considered personal services and therefore exempt from the new sales tax that is effective Sept. 1.

Finance charges and insurance premiums in the sale of new or used automobiles also are non-taxable.

In cases where lubrication and an oil change are billed at a price including the labor charge, the PAA said only the oil sale is taxable.

The association also said conferences with Sales Tax Bureau officials brought a ruling that in doing service work for customers, parts are taxable but the labor charge is exempt.

Meanwhile, the Revenue Department held up final printing of 50,000 copies of new sales tax regulations to make way for last-minute changes.

Harry Banzhoff Jr., attached to the Sales Tax Bureau's legal unit, said new regulations will be added today to the 60 pages of rules announced Monday.

He declined to discuss the nature of the additions but added: "They're important enough to hold up printing. We must be certain they appear in the printed booklet so there won't be any confusion even though we're rushed beyond comprehension."

More than half of all Americans wear glasses.

Dr. Bortree Heads Department Of Veterinary Science At State

Newfoundland—Dr. Alfred L. Bortree has been named head of the department of veterinary science recently organized at the Pennsylvania State College, according to an announcement by Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, president of the college.

Dr. Bortree is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred D. Bortree, Sterling, and is a graduate of the Green-Dresher-Sterling High School, class of 1934.

Graduating from Penn State in 1939, Dr. Bortree received his master's degree and doctorate from Michigan State College. He taught at the latter institution before returning to Penn State in 1948.

The new department will provide clinical services and will continue work previously conducted co-operatively through the departments of poultry husbandry, dairy husbandry and animal husbandry, Dr. Eisenhower said.

The pre-veterinary curriculum, formerly offered through the department of animal husbandry, will be administered through the new department. Co-ordination of the work of two important units recently established at the college, the diagnostic laboratory and the animal and poultry disease research center, will also come under Dr. Bortree's supervision.

Most Women Act Like Human Beings, 'Frenzy Report' Finds

... easily aroused. 92 percent of all women studied wake up before their husbands. 98 percent of these go back to bed once their husbands have gotten their morning coffee and taken off for work.

Less than five percent of wives object if their husbands forget to kiss them goodbye in the morning.

98 percent said their husbands do not shave often enough. 42 percent refused to admit that they used their husband's razor blades for household purposes like cutting linoleum, cloth material or scraping scattered paint off wooden surfaces.

Prior to marriage, 93 percent of all women thought the "ideal family" consisted of six children. Less than one one-hundredth of those had six children. Two years after marriage 99.76 percent of all women agreed that two children were enough.

87 percent think their husbands don't make enough money.

92 percent believe the modern kitchen is wonderful but don't know what to do with themselves in their spare time.

82 percent of all wives have mother-in-law trouble. 65 percent of all mothers-in-law have son and daughter-in-law trouble.

Women are slower to respond than men. 82 percent of all wives failed to respond when their husbands asked for a cold beer. 93 percent failed to respond when told that the monthly grocery bill was too high.

73 percent of all women profess to be "disinterested" in their husband's secretary. 72 percent make a careful check of the girl's background shortly thereafter.

97 percent of women who work say they do so to augment the family income. Two percent say they do it to occupy themselves. Less than one percent admits they do it because they like the job.

29 percent of women who are engaged have diamond rings. 30 percent do not have rings. 40 percent think rings are nice, but we can't afford it. One percent thinks engagement rings are silly.

96 percent of all women wearing slacks insist the husband wears the pants in their family. 42 percent of their husbands refused to comment.

46 percent claimed they were "not interested" in the Kinsey report on the human female. 29 percent said they intended to buy copies. 10 percent said they intended to read about it in women's magazines. Two percent said they doubted it would be as interesting as the one on men. The remaining 13 percent said the report seemed "anti-climatic."

A Little Different

Estranged Husband's Payment Offer Too Lenient For Wife

The disagreement sounded "backwards" yesterday as an estranged couple argued in county court over a charge of desertion and non-support against the husband.

The husband, Howard Correll, East Stroudsburg carpenter thought his wife should be content with $25 a week toward support of her and two children.

His wife disagreed. What she wanted, she told the court, was $20.

That would be enough for her two children, and as for herself, she planned to get a job, she told President Judge Fred W. Davis and District Attorney Elmer D. Christine.

After listening to the couple for a few moments, Judge Davis smiled and remarked that this was "a little different" from the usual non-support case.

The order was finally issued for $20 weekly for the two children, and Mrs. Correll was excluded.

In another case, a tall truck-driver complained his wife hit him over the head with a fly swatter.

The husband, John Knecht, Pocomo Summit, took the stand in his own defense after his wife,

Gloria, charged him with desertion and non-support of her and her 14-month-old son.

Mrs. Knecht testified she and her husband had been married for two years, but did not start living together until about four months ago. She testified that Knecht abused her and they separated again about three weeks ago.

Knecht was ordered by President Judge Fred W. Davis to pay $20 a week for support.

In the third case Caesar Von Atzingen, Stroudsburg RD, was ordered to pay $10 a week to support of his wife, Ann.

Mean temperatures in the southern part of Ontario, Canada, are about the same as those of San Francisco.

E. STROUDSBURG—NEWLY SURFACED LOT

A PLACE IN THE SUN—for the hostesses at yesterday's Garden Club meeting at Hill Farm. Seated Mrs. Arthur Slee, chairman of the hostess committee and Mrs. Frank Sheble at whose home the meeting was held. Standing, Mrs. Philip Hyland, Miss Adelaide Sheble and Mrs. Earl Robacker.

Wide Horizon For Garden Club Meeting

Theme of the Monroe County Garden Club's summer meeting yesterday afternoon was "Toward Wider Horizons" in both setting and program. The meeting was held at Hill Farm, home of Mrs. Frank Sheble, on Mount Nebo, which overlooks about twenty miles of the Delaware Valley from its wide porches.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kane, county librarian, had "Toward Wider Horizons" as the theme of her talk in which she told of books which could break through the narrowness which people allow to take over their lives.

Through books, she said, people can visit not only other countries but other centuries, and the regions under the sea and over the earth. The books she recommended bore out her thesis: Edward Lear's "North With The Spring", and "Green Treasure"; "God Graves and Scholars" by Seram, "Digging Beyond the Tiers" by Linda Bradwood, and "I Married a Dinosaur" by Lillian Brown, all dealing with the work of archeologists in ancient sections of the world.

The sequel to "Kon-Ti-Ki", "Further," Rachel Carson's "The Sea Around Us" and "Under the Sea Wind"; Eugene Clark's "Lady With a Spear"; Capt. Cousteau's "Silent World" she recommended for those who wanted their sea experiences at home.

"Anna Purna," by Maurice Herzog representing the conquest of mountain; Theodore Stanswell-Fletcher's "The Tundra World"; Sally Carrigher's "Icebound Summer" all open new worlds to their readers, she said.

Her talk followed a brief business meeting with Mrs. Elwood Grant, president, presiding. "She gave a short talk on 'Summer—the Season of Happiness'."

Announcement was made of the card party to be held September 17 at Scotts Mountain Manor at Marshalls Creek. Mrs. Elwood Sullivan and Mrs. Elwood Knob will be in charge of reservations. Proceeds will be used for the Wild Flower Sanctuary, major project of the Garden Club this year.

Mrs. Grant also outlined the program for the Skytop Conference of the Federated Garden Clubs of 5 states to be held September 30 and October 1. Members may get their registration blanks from Mrs. Grant.

Members were also invited to attend the 1953 Fall Flower Show of the Norristown Garden Club September 19 and 20 at the Stewart Memorial Armory in Norristown.

Major portion of the meeting was spent outdoors on the terrace

The Andres Announce Birth Of Second Son

Mr. and Mrs. Jewellyn Andre, of Arlington Heights, announce the birth of a son yesterday morning in the General Hospital of Monroe County.

The baby, who will be named Jeffrey William Andre, weighed 9 pounds 10 and a half ounces. The Andres have an older son, Stephen, who will soon be five years old.

Son Born To The Staples At Air Base Hospital

Blakeslee, A. C. and Mrs. Laurence E. Staples are the parents of a son, James Earl, born August 18, at Bolling Field Air Base Hospital, Washington, D. C. The baby weighed 7 pounds 15 ounces. Airman Staples is a former resident of Blakeslee and entered the service on December 2. Since his basic training at Sampson, he was further trained in Flight Control Administration at Keesler Air Force Base, Biloxi, Miss. At present he is continuing this work at Andrews Air Base, Washington, D. C.

Around The Stroudsburgs

Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Tobias and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin S. Gans, of Cleveland, Ohio, visited Alfred L. Snyder in Stroudsburg yesterday. Mr. Tobias is a Cleveland attorney and past Supreme Commander of the Order of Knights of Malta. This was the party's first visit to this section and they were enthusiastic about the beauty of the county.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Parkinson, and Mr. and Mrs. Neal Conly of Philadelphia were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Grant, Anatomink Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ford and sons of Chatham, N. J., are visiting Mrs. Ford's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Welles Van Campen of Bushkill, until Labor Day.

Miss Christina Neumann, of West Pittston is recuperating from a recent illness at the home of her niece, Mrs. Elwood Grant, Anatomink Lake.

Kinsey's Report On Women Points Up Effects Of Aging Psychology On Marital Woes

(This story has been carefully done by Science Reporter Alton L. Blakeslee)

By Alton L. Blakeslee
Associated Press Science Reporter

Bloomington, Ind., (AP)—Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey's scientific look at women's sex lives finds many popular ideas are wrong.

He also finds that women don't grow old in sex activity like men, and that the only basic difference between men and women in sex is mental in how they react to sights, sounds, thoughts, and other psychological stimuli toward sex. These two things are the cause of much maladjustment and trouble in marriage.

Dr. Kinsey authorized advance publication yesterday of findings in the new, 842-page book, Sexual Behavior in the Human Female, to appear Sept. 14. It's based not only upon interviews with nearly 6,000 females, but many other experts' studies of different phases of sex. Traditional ideas which he says are wrong are:

That women are slower to respond sexually; that they have more sexually-stimulating or erogenous areas on their bodies; that girls develop sexually earlier than boys; that there are any basic differences in the nature of the sex response in men and women; that the sex response is more emotion-packed for a wife than a husband. Another important point, he adds, is that the sex lives of humans are like fingerprints—no two exactly alike.

No person yet fits all the averages which Dr. Kinsey and associates have found in their work at the Institute for Sex Research, Inc., at Indiana University.

Women show greater extremes in sex behavior than men.

The postwar 1938 witnessed a sharp change in women's sex habits, and there's been little change since then. More women began engaging in premarital affairs and petting, and rigidity in marriage has declined by one-third to one-half of what it had been among wives born before 1900.

The statistics also indicate: Half of women have sex relations before they marry.

About 26 per cent of wives at some time during marriage have affairs with one or more other men.

The female report, authored by all 14 members of the institute, points up two findings that bear on many marriages—the effects of aging and psychology.

Most women, it finds, do not reach a peak of sex activity until about 27 or 28, though the peak may come earlier or later.

But once they reach this individual peak, women maintain that degree of activity to the age of 50 or 60, with no sharp decline as they grow older.

Men, though, usually reach a peak at about 16 to 18. Then their activity steadily declines with the years.

Difficulties often arise because men show this aging effect while women don't. Wives often are becoming more interested and less inhibited about sex when their husbands are going down hill in capacity.

Most women are not stimulated as men are, or as often as men, by psychological stimuli—nude pictures, thoughts of sex, or anticipation to it.

Women usually don't talk about sex with other women, and aren't stimulated as much as men by discussions of sex. This reticence is a reason why women don't know much about sex.

Chapters analyzing the anatomy, physiology, nerve mechanisms, psychology, and hormone influences in sex tell the scientific story of sex in humans.

They show an interesting closeness between sex and anger.

something which might explain some sex crimes.

Dr. Kinsey says the findings in the new book are probably typical of many American women, but does not claim it mirrors the actions of all women, and certainly not women of other countries.

As with the book on men, all profits from the new book, selling for $8 and published by W. D. Saunders Co., Philadelphia, will go to the institute to finance continuing research. Other volumes are planned on sex laws, sex education, marriage problems and other subjects. Drs. Wardell B. Pomeroy, Clyde E. Martin and Paul H. Gebhard are principal co-authors of the report on women.

The purpose of the research, started 15 years ago, is to learn facts about human sex. Only with that knowledge, says Dr. Kinsey, can more intelligent approaches be made to solve marital sex problems, and to design realistic sex laws, which will protect society and its members.

Dr. Kinsey finds sex causes trouble in two-thirds of marriages at some time or other, and that sex problems were among causes of 75 per cent of divorces reported by interviewed men and women.

"Sexual adjustment represents only one aspect and not necessarily the most important aspect of marriage. No balanced program for American youth can be confined to preparing them only for the sexual relationship in marriage." History, he adds, "confirms the importance of the family."

Men and women will never learn to get along better with each other "until each understands the other as they are, and not as they hope or imagine them to be."

Marriage vows are not a magic wand "which can make a person instantly lose all inhibitions about sex acquired since childhood."

"The church, home, and school are the chief sources of sexual inhibitions, the distaste for all aspects of sex, the fears of physical difficulties which may be involved in sexual relations, and the feelings of guilt which many females carry with them into their marriages."

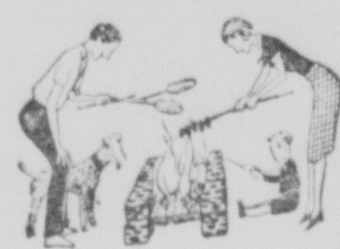

The studies show that if parents or other adults want to be the sources of a child's first information on sex, they have to tell the child at least by the time he's 10 or 12, or he'll learn it from friends.

Devoutly religious girls and women are less likely to have premarital relations, the statistics show.

Fewer women than men are homosexuals.

Veneral disease may not be as big a problem as some persons believe. Of 1,753 women who had premarital affairs and were questioned on this point, only 44 had contracted V.D.

Kiwanis Club Dance Tonight At The Campus

The Kiwanis Club of Stroudsburg, their wives and friends will hold a mid-summer dance on Friday night, August 21, at the Campus ballroom, Bushkill. Hal Rice and his orchestra and Conrad Hecht, pianist, will entertain.

Robert Hellmann, Walter McClelland, and Charles Grace compose the committee in charge. Many Kiwanians are planning to entertain at dinners before the dance.

No reservations are necessary and tickets may be obtained at the door.

Chippettes To Model New Skirts They Made

The Chippettes 4-H Club met recently at the home of Jane Layton on Chippertfield Drive. Miss Margaret MacLaren, their county leader, was welcomed back from her three weeks in Colorado.

After the business meeting, the girls sewed on their skirts. Refreshments were served.

On Tuesday, they met again at the home of Sharon Fabel, when they received an invitation to be guests at the Northampton County Round-Up to be held August 25. At that time they will wear the skirts they have made.

Refreshments were served to Miss MacLaren, Jane Layton, Diane Colvin, and Joan Hester by the hostess, Sharon Fabel.

Altar Guild Has Corn Roast

The Altar Guild of St. John's Lutheran Church held a corn and doggie roast at the home of Mrs. Robert Long, Chippertfield Drive, on Wednesday night. There was a good turnout of members and their families.

Games were played with prizes won by Edwin Bark, Mrs. John Fisher, Paul and Lin Rupert and Elaine Ackerman.

The men played quoits with Paul Ackerman and Robert Long the winning team. Hostesses were Mrs. Joseph Barnes, Mrs. Clarence, Mrs. Lucy Heller, and Mrs. Long.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

A very practical brother and sister team for the nursery book shelf can be found in our children's department, under the titles "All By Himself" and "All By Himself." Kay Clark has written the rhymed text, which is printed on heavy white fabric, generously illustrated. The idea behind it all is that the growing youngster has lots to learn—how to zip, button, snap, and tie himself or herself into clothing, and how to use pockets. Here, fastened to the printed pages, are buttons, zippers, etc., so the child can become acquainted with these intricate devices and master them. Price of the book is $1.98, but you couldn't hire a tutor even one hour for that! . . . Another item of interest to parents is the behavior chart which sells on our main floor at $1. These are colorful cutouts of plywood in the forms of an animal or characters familiar to little folks, with magnetized stars, signifying excellence in sleeping, eating, and grooming habits, completing the set. Attach a chart to the nursery wall, and it becomes a picture as well as a silent disciplinarian. Wonder if a housewife might not also have one for the man in her life—just in case he wrinkles up his nose at his spinach? . . . Coverlet. That's a word I like. It sounds comfortable and cozy, doesn't it? It looks that way too, particularly if it's of cotton plisse in a charming old fashioned geometric design and if it's quilted for extra warmth. Use it for a throw or as a bedspread, and it's the tops in tops, for a mere $12.98. Equally attractive are a few in percale priced at $10.98. The size is 68 by 84 . . . Also from our domestic department is the Revere Throw, a woven blanket in glamorous shades of pink, blue, rose red, or yellow with acetate binding. These are soft as a baby's bunting, yet strangely reminiscent of great grandma's cuddly shawl, and the price is $9.95. Buy one with a ten dollar bill—and have a nickel left for a Hershey bar . . . Did you ever dream of owning a magic carpet? Dick Shook's department offers you a honey in Vinylloom plastic. Skid resistant, stain resistant, long wearing and springy, these resemble braided rugs and can be used in any room or on the porch. You'll find them in pink, white, blue, black, gray and tan. The large mats are reduced from $2.49 to $1.99, and the small, from $1.49 to 99 cents. One cent change from a dollar—let me see. Oh yes—just drop it in a bank marked "Pennies for Sales Tax." And remember, if you're planning any big purchase, now's the time to make it, before the tax goes into effect . . . One of the simpler fabrics from our home decorating department is draped now on the main stairway to the second floor, and I'd like to call your attention to it. Of hark cloth, it has an all-over pattern of leaves in shades of brown, blue, and chartreuse against a delicate beige background. There's nothing showy or flamboyant about it. But you could relax with it, and find home a very restful place . . . While shopping for hankies yesterday I came across some very smart fringed woolen stoles in tartan plaids. Their colors attracted me; their prices astonished me. It's hard to believe you can find such a buy—one and 3/4 yards long—for $2.98. Somewhat narrower and shorter stoles are $1.98 . . . A perfect gift for the prospective traveler is the Jean Nate bath soap and fragrant after bath lotion, the latter bottled in plastic and both encased in a transparent plastic bag. $2.80 is the price with tax, and it's a going away PRESENT with a clean and delightful future.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

It is quite apparent that the Monroe County Softball League is now in the midst of its most successful financial season in its history. But the circuit isn't resting on its present laurels, but rather is planning for a bigger and better future. The league would like very much to inaugurate a night softball league, playing two games each night under the lights, and allowing the evening hours open for Little League and Little Bigger League play. The idea is good, but everyone connected with the local softball setup knows full well that there is many a hurdle to overcome before the idea of night baseball can become a reality.

First a field probably would have to be purchased or at least leased for a number of years. Lights would have to be erected and the field would have to be put in proper condition for good softball. The task would require plenty of money and even more work. The league at this time would like to know whether anyone has a piece of property suitable for a softball field that they would like to sell or lease. The circuit would also like to know if anyone financially fixed could aid the group in purchasing the field.

Approximately 100 men play softball four nights each week and five times that many people receive a measure of enjoyment from the sport each day on which contests are played. The idea of night softball in the area is certainly good, but the big question is whether a deal of this type can be swung. It's a deal in which the community must take an interest and one in which everyone interested in softball must take a part or the plan is doomed. The fact that softball will be moving from the crowded evening hours to after dark play should increase the interest in the sport.

There is much local interest in Sunday's 36-hole final round of the Philadelphia PGA at Shawnee, in which Henry Williams, Berkleigh Country Club, will oppose Pete DeAngelis, Plymouth Country Club. Williams, the master golfer, will try to gain his second Philadelphia PGA title against DeAngelis, a calm, true swinger who at the present time is at the top of his game. The first of two Sunday rounds is listed for 9 a. m.

A special meeting of the Varsity "E" Club committee was held Wednesday night, at which time 500 cards were mailed out to graduates of East Stroudsburg High School. The club will hold an official formation gathering in the high school building next Tuesday, at which time officers for the year to come will be elected. The Varsity "E" organization is being formed to further the cause of athletics in Eastburg. The special committee consists of Paul Lloyd, Redge Nauman, Bob Nauman, Francis Phillips, Bill Lee, Bill Hudock, John Kolen and Tom Carmella.

Joe Shea, tackle on the East Stroudsburg High football team last season, is now with a tank outfit at Fort Leonard Wood. John "Juice" Arnet, the other tackle at East Stroudsburg last season, is scheduled to leave for Penn State on Sunday, September 13. Harold Freeman, center fielder for Pocono A. C. Blue Mountain League, this season, was in right field for Bushkill against Tannersville in a Pocono Mountains League contest last Sunday.

T. Manning "Cap" Curtis, athletic director at Stroudsburg High, had a recent New England vacation ruined when his car was struck from behind by another automobile. "Cap" and Mrs. Curtis returned home by train. The recent reinstatement of ineligible players in the Pocono Mountains League is still the center of a pro and con discussion among players and managers in the circuit.

Stroudsburg High Announces Ten-Game Football Schedule

Stroudsburg High School presents the perfect football schedule as far as spectators are concerned this season, alternating away and home games by order throughout the campaign.

Five of the 10 games slated will be played at Gordon Giffels field, while the other five outings will be held on foreign gridirons.

Indians Maul Five Detroit Hurlers, 13-7

Detroit, (AP)—The Cleveland Indians celebrated Manager Al Lopez' 45th birthday with an 18-hit outburst yesterday as they maulled five Detroit Tiger pitchers for a 13-7 decision that snapped a four-game losing streak.

Cleveland jumped on Tiger starter Teddy Gray for four runs, aided by two errors in the first inning. Then the Indians made four errors in the bottom of the inning, which the Tigers parlayed with five hits to deadlock the score at 4-4.

Bob Lemon had a six-run lead when he fired in the seventh with Bob Hooper rushing in to hold the Tigers scoreless the rest of the way.

The loss eliminated the Tigers from any mathematical chance of catching the Yankees in the American League race. Cleveland—400 126 000—13 18 4 Detroit—400 102 000—7 11 2

Tatamy Trips Portland In Title Playoff Opener

Five Runs In Second Frame Decide Issue

Portland—Tatamy got the jump on Portland in the first game of the championship playoff series in the Blue Mountain League by scoring a 6-2 victory over the Apollos here last night on the losing club's home field.

Tatamy, the third place club in the final standings of the circuit, broke the game wide open by blasting Bill "Lefty" Greenmeyer for five runs in the second frame.

Portland had opened the scoring by pushing one run across the plate in the first frame, but the Apollo bats were silenced the remainder of the distance by Tate, except for a one-run spurge in the seventh and final stanza.

Tatamy came up with an insurance marker in the fourth round.

The winning aggregation held an 8-5 edge in the hit column and both clubs were guilty of three errors. Dick Biery, Tatamy catcher doubled for the game's only extra base blow.

The second game of the series will be played at Tatamy on Sunday, at 2:30 p.m.

Tatamy earned its way into the final round by eliminating the regular season title holder, Martins Creek, in the opening series, while fourth place Portland upset second place Roseto in the initial round.

Strafaci Wins In Amateur

Grand Rapids, Mich. (AP)—Veteran Frank Strafaci of Garden City, N. Y., playing "the greatest match of my life" advanced to the quarterfinals of the Western Amateur golf championships yesterday with a remarkable display of putting.

The dark-haired medalist buried Dr. Wendell Aldrich of Angola, Ind., four and three, with an avalanche of seven birdies in 15 holes.

His brilliant play in the afternoon round even overshadowed the stunning morning upset of tournament favorite Harvie Ward Jr. of Atlanta, Ga., who melted before the hot iron of Henry Loeb, unknown 13-year-old from Highland Park, Ill. The score was four and three.

However, Loeb's Cinderella story was cut short when he lost in the afternoon to Richard Norton of Grand Rapids, Mich., four and two.

Pennsylvania Team Advances To Finals

Hershey, (AP)—Pennsylvania advanced into the finals of the first annual national Teener Baseball Tournament yesterday by beating North Carolina, 9-2.

In the second round game New York whipped Virginia, 13-1, to qualify for a semifinal contest against Illinois today. The winner faces Pennsylvania Saturday. The tournament is sponsored for 13-15-year old boys by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

DeAngelis Aces Twelfth Hole At Shawnee In Defeating Robinson; Williams Tops Johnson

Shawnee-on-Deleware — Henry Williams, Berkleigh Country Club, Reading, battled his way into the final round of the Philadelphia PGA Tournament yesterday and earned a chance to become the first pro to win the PGA championship twice since the tourney has been held here at Shawnee Inn and Country Club. Williams will face Pete DeAngelis, Plymouth Country Club, Norristown, in the final round.

They will meet Sunday for the 36-hole final over the 6,787-yard course.

Dropping a hole-in-one on an 18-hole round DeAngelis took a one-up decision over Jack Robinson, Greco Valley C. C., Philadelphia. Williams was five under par in his four and three victory over Teri Johnson, DuPont Country Club, Wilmington, Del.

The hole-in-one, made against the wind with a five iron on the 168-yard "Punch Bowl" 12 hole, was DeAngelis' first in 11 years of golfing. He was three under par for the round.

Robinson fought back to even the score on the 17th with a 25-foot putt, but DeAngelis drove to within four feet of the pin on the 18th and canned his putt for victory.

Williams played sparkling golf in defeating Johnson. The winner had nothing worse than a par. Sunday's opening round will begin at 9 a. m.

Williams will be shooting for his second Philadelphia PGA crown, having won on this same Shawnee course in 1949.

Yankees Run Wild In One Big Inning To Crush Senators, 7-0

New York, (AP)—Eddie Lopat kept Washington hitting his breaking stuff into the dirt yesterday as he pitched a seven-hit shutout, 7-0, that boosted the New York Yankees' lead over idle Chicago to nine full games.

Steve O'Neill

It was the chunky left-hander's 11th straight victory over Washington in a string running back to June 26, 1951.

Bob Porterfield, the American League's shutout leader, was clubbed by his old Yankee teammates. A seven-run uprising in the fourth inning sent Porterfield to the showers with his 10th defeat, five of them at the hands of the Yanks.

Uprising

A ground ball hit by "Hank" Bauer to Eddie Yost, charged as an error to the Senators' third baseman, started all the trouble. Then the Yanks really unloaded on the Washington right-hander.

The Yankees sent 11 men to bat. Joe Collins climaxed the spurge against Porterfield with a two-run homer, his ninth, into the right field stands. Yogi Berra, first baseman Don Bolweg and third baseman Gil McDougald contributed two-base blows in the uprising. Washington—000 000 000—0 7 3 New York—000 700 000—7 10 0

Dodgers Treat Giants To Whitewash Job

Brooklyn, (AP)—Carl Erskine pitched his second straight shutout over New York yesterday as the Brooklyn Dodgers crushed the Giants, 10-0, for their 13th straight victory and extended their first place lead over the idle Milwaukee Braves to nine games.

Erskine again blanked the Giants on four hits as he chalked up his 13th triumph against five defeats. Ruben Gomez, first of four Giant hurlers, was charged with the loss. He was derricked after "Junior" Gilliam opened the Dodgers fourth inning with a home run to boost the Dodgers' lead to 6-0.

Home Runs

The Dodgers collected 11 hits, Robinson, Bobby Morgan and Gilliam, Robinson's round tripper, his ninth of the season, came with two mates aboard in the third. Morgan's four-bagger was a solo blast in the fifth.

Alvin Dark's error set up two Dodger runs in the first. Monte Kennedy's wildness gave the Dodgers three more tallies.

The closest New York came to scoring was in the sixth when "Hank" Thompson doubled off the right field screen missing a home run by three or four feet.

The defeat dropped the fifth place Giants 23 and one-half games behind the front running Dodgers and six full contests in back of the fourth place Phillies.

Cardinals Nip Cubs On Hit By Mizell, 5-3

St. Louis, (AP)—Wilmer "Vinegar Bend" Mizell won his own ball game yesterday for the St. Louis Cardinals, breaking a six-inning tie with a two-run double as the Redbirds scored a 5-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs bunched four of their seven safeties in the fourth to score all of their runs. Mizell walked four and struck out five to bring his season's total to 119.

Included in the Redbirds' nine blows were "Red" Schoendienst's two-run homer, his 12th, and Stan Musial's 40th double, which started the winning rally.

Open Gate

The Cubs permitted "Rip" Repulski's two-out pop fly to fall near the mound for a scratch hit in the third and Schoendienst promptly homered.

Chicago went ahead in the fourth, scoring three times on Dee Fondy's single, Randy Jackson's triple, safeties by Eddie Miksis and Clyde McCullough, plus Hal Jeffcoat's infield out.

Then in the home sixth, Musial doubled with one out and scored the tying run on Ray Jablonski's single.

Drum Corps Steps Up Activities

George N. Kemp post Drum and Bugle Corps will hold its annual summer outing Saturday night.

A picnic supper will be served, beginning at 5:30 p.m., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Price, Oakwood Ave., Stroudsburg.

Approximately 50 corps members and their families are expected to take part.

On Labor Day the group will parade, this time at Newton, N. J., where the unit will represent the Milford Fire Department.

Now in the midst of a concentrated membership drive, the corps hopes to build to full strength throughout the winter and take a more active part in regional drum and bugle corps competition next summer.

Apply For License

Bernard G. Smith, East Stroudsburg, and Yvonne A. Lambert, Delaware Water Gap, applied for a marriage license at the court house yesterday.

4-H Clubbers Place Third In Swine Judging

The Monroe County 4-H Swine Judging Team placed third in a state-wide judging contest at Penn State during 4-H Club Week, according to an announcement made by County Agent A. E. Hill. Eighteen county teams participated in the swine judging contest.

The three 4-H Club members on the Monroe County team were Martin Gougher and Alton Kientop, of the Kunkletown 4-H Club, and Glenn Detrick, of the Hamilton 4-H Club. This team was coached and directed by Luther Zimmerman, assistant county agent in Monroe and Carbon Counties. He accompanied the boys to Penn State.

Second high honors for individuals went to Martin Gougher. There were 34 club members in the swine judging contest. Clinton

Street Lighting Offers Submitted

Philadelphia, L.P. A New York company has offered the city of Philadelphia a modern street lighting system which it claims is cheaper than the present system owned and operated by the Philadelphia Electric Co., and the Philadelphia Gas Works.

The Broadway Maintenance Corp., Long Island, proposes modernizing and maintaining the city's lighting system for a yearly cost of around $2,725,000 for the next ten years. City officials said this was about $25,000 less than the currently annual lighting bill.

Your Horoscope Today

FRIDAY, AUGUST 21, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries): Self-restraint, calm reasoning are your chief staff today. The position of planets suggests that you make no important promises or change situations which are now having satisfactory results. Be steady, untroubled.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus): Your views and other plans indicate prompt attendance to unfurnished business and matters put off for some time rather than start new and, perhaps, not urgent undertakings. Best when you can.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini): Not an overly stimulating or encouraging period but no day should pass without each of us trying to accomplish at least some thing worth while.

June 21 to July 20 (Cancer): No moods, no needless anxiety permitted on today's schedule. The calmer, more serene and helpful you are, the more you'll get done and the happier you'll be. Go along sensibly.

July 21 to August 20 (Leo): Some pleasant indications for you and all others who keep emotions in restraint and go about tasks, hobbies or whatever else is scheduled, without complaint. No need to strain or worry.

August 21 to September 20 (Virgo): Read calmly and maintain an even pace and attempting to do more than you safely can for health's sake. Familial matters are more favored than new ones. Enjoy peaceful work and September 21 to October 20 (Libra): Not a day to risk or crowd one's self. One can be accomplished by calmly proceeding with usual program and not trying to overdo.

October 21 to November 20 (Scorpio): Not entirely encouraging for business and money transactions unless they were prearranged and had sound bases.

November 21 to December 20 (Sagittarius): Extra caution urged in spending, investing, signing contracts or agreements, making bids, giving estimates.

December 21 to January 20 (Capricorn): About the same as for you as for most of us now. Do your best, follow wisely planned schedules, don't strain health, don't worry.

January 21 to February 20 (Aquarius): Your ambitions; Don't be restless, changeable, and don't waste energy and time on trifles. Difficult matters need not frighten.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces): For you, sensible precautions are advised in everything you do during this so-so period. If on vacation, enjoy restful activities.

YOU BORN TODAY are sincere, diplomatic, ever ready to give service and aid to family, friends, and business associates. You may have to curb impulsiveness, and you are perhaps too persistent at times. But you are innately a fine person, talented, personable and capable of attaining real success in your profession or trade. Would make a wonderful, religious, devout and humble. You are often ingenious, creative but not adverse to listening to others. Taking sound advice is a great gift. Important: you keep cheerful, hopeful and always keep faith with God. Birthdate: Jean Baptiste Greuze, noted Fr. painter, Frank Munsey, author, publisher.

IF YOU ARE DIABETIC

Faithful adherence to the advice of a physician is of stellar importance in the treatment of diabetes. His study of the individual case is the sole possible source of intelligent advice and worthwhile aid. Diabetics should consult him before commencing any diet, and should follow his instructions completely and religiously.
